Ilocos, Davao most dangerous for journalists

By Julie Alipala
Inquirer Mindanao

ZAMBOANGA CITY—THE ILOCOS provinces and Davao Oriental are dangerous to journalists "based on recent incidents of killings," according to Director General Jesus Verzosa, chief of the Philippine National Police.

Verzosa, who visited the city on Tuesday said intense political rivalries in provinces in Luzon tended to jeopardize the safety of journalists there while in Davao Oriental,

'Lorenzo is missing link'

Magsaysay: He can link GMA to agri fund scam

By TJ Burgonio

LUIS "CITO" LORENZO can provide damning evidence to directly connect former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo to the P728-million fertilizer fund scam, former Sen. Ramon Magsaysay Jr. said yesterday.

"He's the missing link. He will give us the complete picture. I'm sure of that. He wants to protect himself and his reputation, and that of his family," Magsaysay said of the former agriculture secretary in an interview by phone.

Magsaysay, who headed the 2005 Senate inquiry into the scam and recommended the filing of plunder charges against Lorenzo and other agriculture officials, agreed that Lorenzo could serve as a state witness in the government's prosecution of the case, as President Aquino had indicated.

Magsaysay said Lorenzo could provide crucial testimony that there was a "higher authority" who ordered the disbursement of the fund purportedly for the purchase of farm inputs and implements for farmers.

"He can show evidence that he had been bypassed," Magsaysay said, indicating a lack of reservations about Lorenzo becoming a state wit-

World Cup down to a duel: Spain vs Netherlands

JOHANNESBURG—NEARLY A month, 62 matches and tens of thousands of vuvuzela blasts later, the World Cup is down to two title contenders: Spain and The Netherlands will meet in Sunday's final at Soccer City.

Spain's veteran central defender Carles Puyol soared high in the 73rd minute from a corner to head into the German net after a tight, technical and gripping game. Puyol's goal was the only one of the match against a German team that could not sweep aside its opponents as it had done before.

The Netherlands booked its final spot a day earlier with a 3-2 win over Uruguay at Cape Town.

Uruguay and Germany will play in Saturday's third-place match at Port Elizabeth.

EAGER TO KNOW WHAT GLORIA Macapagal-Arroyo has to say about her former agriculture secretary's avowed intention to cooperate with the planned inquiry into the P728-million fertilizer fund scam in 2004?

Don't hold your breath.

As when she was the President, the new representative of the second district of Pampanga yesterday displayed her disdain for the media.

Arroyo ignored the reporters and cameramen thronging around her to record her comment on the just returned Luis "Cito" Lorenzo, and scurried away, in the words of a GMA TV reporter, "like a mouse."

On the other hand, Jocelyn "Joc-joc" Bolante, a former agriculture undersecretary and the purported architect of the diversion of the fertilizer fund to Arroyo's presidential campaign in 2004, said he would cooperate with any legal investigation of the scam.

"Bringing the P728-million issue to its full closure is good for our country and for those wrongly implicated," Bolante said in a text message to the In-

Faeldon 'surrenders to will of the people'

By Jocelyn R. Uy

TWO AND A HALF YEARS OF playing cat and mouse has ended in a three-hour talk over coffee for fugitive Marine Capt. Nicanor Faeldon.

Faeldon, one of the leaders of the so-called "Magdalo" rebel group, yesterday said that with a duly elected President now ruling the country, he had no more reason to "stay unaccountable."

Linked to two failed coups against former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, the 44-year-old rogue soldier on Tuesday turned himself in to Marine Commandant Major Gen. Juancho Sabban.

He yielded after he and Sabban talked for about three hours at a coffee shop in The Fort, Taguig City.

"We have a new government [that] has the mandate of the people, which is the opposite of the previous administration, so I am surrendering to the will of the people now," Faeldon told a press conference.

SC justices on travel binge

By Dona Pazzibugan

THE TRAVEL BUG HAS HIT THE COUNTRY'S MAGISTRATES, which could force the Supreme Court to skip one of its regular en banc sessions this month due to lack of quorum.

At least seven of the 14 incumbent justices will be out of the country on official travel on different dates in July.

Their trips were approved by Chief Justice Renato Corona on July 1, documents show.

Another justice is also on a "wellness leave" around the same time.

By the next full court (en banc) session on July 13, six justices will be out of the country while another is on official leave, thereby leaving the Supreme Court without a quorum.

Associate Justices Lucas Bersamin, Teresita Leonardo-De Castro, Diosdado Peralta and Presbitero Velasco Jr. have already left on July 5 for a 12-day long visit to Spain and the Netherlands.

'Knowledge sharing'

According to documents, the four magistrates will be on a "knowledge sharing and exchange visit" to the Supreme Courts of Spain and the Netherlands. They will also visit the International Court of Justice based in The Hague, Netherlands.

They are on official travel leave from July 5 to 16.

The four justices will witness either a national celebration or a national grieving since Spain and the Netherlands' respective football teams will have their much-anticipated World Cup finals showdown in South Africa on July 12.

Overlapping trips

Their trips will overlap with those of Associate Justices Mariano del Castillo and Jose Perez who will be in Jakarta, Indonesia, from July 11 to 17.

They will attend the 7th Conference of Asian Constitutional Court of Judges in the Indonesian capital.

Associate Justice Eduardo Nachura was set to return Wednesday, July 7 from Singapore where he attended a Hitachi-sponsored leadership forum.

He was on leave from July 4 to 7 to attend the 10th anniversary of the Hitachi Young Leaders Initiative Alumni Forum in the city-state of Singapore.

Associate Justice Conchita Carpio-Morales, who made history by being the country's first woman justice to swear in a president, went on a two-week-long leave a day after she administered the oath of office to President Aquino on June 30.

Wellness program

She took an official leave of absence from July 1 to 15 under the Supreme Court's "wellness program."

In her absence, Nachura was temporarily designated as acting chairman of the House of Representatives Electoral Tribunal (HRET).

But while Nachura was away, Associate Justice Arturo Brion was designated acting chairman of the HRET.

Some justices are also expected to leave the country next month for two-week-long visits to the United States and Canada.

Those who are set to visit the respective Supreme Courts of the US and Canada are Associate Justices Jose Mendoza, Nachura, De Castro and Brion.

Velasco chairs the Supreme Court's First Division with De Castro, Del Castillo and Perez as members.

Peralta and Nachura belong to the Second Division.

Carpio-Morales chairs the Third Division which includes Bersamin and Brion as members.

Court spokesperson Midas Marquez confirmed that the en banc session next Tuesday was cancelled since some justices are on leave.

"Justices have to honor a commitment to World Bank. Two will attend a Constitutional Court conference, then Justice Morales will also be on leave," he replied through a text message.

DOJ chief to review Morong 43 case

By Dona Pazzibugan

JUSTICE SECRETARY LEILA de Lima said she will review the Department of Justice's basis for filing criminal charges of illegal possession of firearms and explosives against 43 alleged communist health workers who were arrested in Morong, Rizal, five months ago.

She said she knows the case very well since she investigated it back when she was still the chairman of the Commission on Human Rights (CHR).

"I will do that [review the case]. I handled that in the CHR, I know the background, I know what the issues are," she said in a news conference yesterday, her second since assuming office on July 1.

Collectively called by militant groups as "Morong 43," the group consists mostly of women and included two doctors and a nurse. They were arrested on Feb. 6, 2010 by a raiding team composed of military and police operatives at a farm resort owned by Dr. Melecia Velmonte in Morong, Rizal.

The military suspected them of being members of the communist rebel group New People's Army.

In reviewing the case, De Lima said she will not touch on the validity of their arrest since the matter is now pending before the Supreme Court which has yet to rule on it.

The health workers' lawyers questioned the validity of their arrest and detention before the Supreme Court after a special division of the Court of Appeals on March 9, 2010 voted 3-2 to uphold their detention and to dismiss their petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

The appellate court invoked a ruling of the Supreme Court decision in the Ilagan vs. Enrile case in saying that the families of the health workers can no longer demand their release because charges have already been filed in court.

Holiday economics stays—Palace

By Christian V. Esguerra

FORMER PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-Arroyo's policy shifting holidays will stay in place for now.

Malacañang yesterday said President Aquino has yet to decide on the fate of the "holiday economics" policy, which became a law three years ago.

"There is no discussion and no official position yet on holiday economics," presidential spokesperson Edwin Lacierda told reporters. "We have not made any policy (on that). The rule is still there."

Lacierda said what to do with RA 9492 or the "Holiday Economics Law" was not a "priority" by the present administration.

Just a week into the job, Mr. Aquino is focused more on putting the house in order and determining the "lay of the land" in time for his first State of the Nation Address later this month.

Holiday economics, a policy in other Asian countries, moves the observance of non-religious holidays to the nearest Monday to extend weekends and allow for longer family bonding.

The approach was also meant to boost domestic tourism since it would allow people to spend the holiday weekend in beaches and resorts.

Facebook, Twitter tapped vs corruption

THE GOVERNMENT SAID YESTERDAY IT planned to catch corrupt officials in cyberspace by using sites such as Facebook and Twitter as forums for the public to report crimes.

Finance Secretary Cesar Purisima said that his department would soon set up a website with the Customs and tax bureaus through which people could anonymously tip off authorities about crimes such as smuggling and tax evasion.

"It will be a website (with) integrated Facebook, Twitter and whatever social networking site there is. It will be available by SMS (short messaging service) also," Purisima told reporters.

"This will allow people to maintain their anonymity in complaining or sending information to us."

Purisima said he was inspired by a case in China where someone took a picture of a corrupt bureaucrat wearing an expensive Rolex watch and posted the picture on the Internet, leading to the prosecution of the official.

He said that with so many Filipinos carrying camera-equipped mobile phones, it would be harder for smugglers, tax evaders and other criminals to hide evidence of their misdeeds.

A common complaint among businessmen is that criminals with links to corrupt officials too easily get away with smuggling and tax evasion because people are too scared to report them.

Purisima said this effort was limited to his department and related agencies but added that he expected other departments to set up similar websites which would eventually be linked together.

President Aquino, who won presidential elections in May by a landslide, has vowed to eradicate the corruption that has plagued the Philippines for generations.

On Wednesday Mr. Aquino endorsed using the Internet in his antigraft campaign, saying that many cyber-savvy citizens would be eager to help in ferreting out cases of ill-gotten wealth.

"You have these eyes and ears and people who can give us leads on all of these activities. They have the ability to use Facebook... (which) will undoubtedly help in this communication process," Mr. Aquino said on Wednesday.

But Aquino stressed he would not personally go on Facebook or Twitter.

"There will be staff members who will help me," he said without elaborating. AFP

THE ASCOTT LIMITED PROPerties recently kicked off the "Times of your Life at Ascott" campaign with the wedding engagement celebration of TV host and fashion model Maggie Wilson and construction magnate Victor Consunji.

To celebrate the engagement, Ascott Makati prepared an entire day of surprises for the young couple.

The day-long treat started off as soon as the young couple checked in at their plush two-bedroom suite. They were welcomed by a pair of bride and groom teddy bears, which sat atop their bed strewn with rose petals.

After settling in, the couple were pampered with a relaxing in-room massage, courtesy of The Banyan Spa. This was followed by a romantic candlelight dinner prepared by the culinary team of Ascott Makati, which was set up and served in their suite.

Capping off the celebration was an intimate engagement party held at Ascott Makati's Café on the 6th with the couples' closest friends in attendance.

"We are very excited about the 'Times of your Life at Ascott' program," says Ascott Makati general manager Lee Yee Ping.

"This program, which will be implemented in the four properties of Ascott Makati, Somerset Millennium, Somerset Olympia and Somerset Salcedo, invites guests to celebrate their once-in-a-lifetime milestones with us. Whether it's the arrival of a new baby, the celebration of a silver anniversary, or an engagement like Maggie's and Vic's, we will help you make the occasion unforgettable for you and your loved ones."

ASCOTT Makati GM Lee Yee Ping, Vic Consunji and Maggie Wilson, Robin da Roza, Marc Nelson, and Ascott Limited director of sales and marketing Joanne Gokong-Gomez

21 also opened its first Manila store.

Located on the second floor of SM Megamall Bldg. A, this Forever 21 is still considered "quite small" for a flagship store by the company executives who flew in for the event. However, given the store's 2,700 sq m of retail space, Manila's savvy shoppers should already be more than satisfied.

Because of the very pocket-friendly prices of merchandise (from P150-P2,500), according to marketing manager Jane [illegible] Chang, opening day at the store saw men and women making a beeline for the 14 fitting rooms.

The store was equipped to handle the very long line of shoppers who had already taken their picks of shoes, bags, hats, wallets and accessories, as well as in-house clothing brands like Twelve by Twelve, Heritage 1981, 21Men and Love 21.

SM Group chair Henry Sy, SM Investments Corp President Harley Sy and wife Debbie, Megamall's [illegible] Tan, and Forever 21 President Alex Ok [illegible] was helping guests with their purchases at the payment counters were among the many seen at the private pre-opening party held last July [illegible].

Forever 21 is located at the 2nd level of SM Megamall A. The over 2,500 square meter store is the first original Forever 21 outlet in the Philippines. The first Forever 21 store opened in Los Angeles in 1984, and today the chain has 480 stores in the United States and all over the world.
